Don't Forget

Monday, January 16, 2023 - Martin Luther King Day
No school

Friday, January 27, 2023
Pretend Sleepover Day

What We Are Up To

We started the new year with a lot of fun and a lot of learning. We made snowflakes and snowmen, reviewed the short vowels with cute animals, read many new short vowel words, and practiced writing numbers correctly. Everyone was happy to see and play with their friends after such a long break. This week we will turn our attention to different types of weather, weather instruments and storms. We will also talk about Martin Luther King toward the end of the week.

Learning Is Fun

Our gingerbread people are beginning to arrive back at school. We are excited to see the adventures that they had while visiting someone special. We are locating each destination on a map. One gingerbread person visited Germany and the Netherlands. We had to get out the world map! Thank you for helping make this a fun learning activity.

Other News

Our next project involves a baby picture of your child. Please pick a baby picture and send in a copy with you child during the next two weeks. The picture should be 4x6 or smaller and it should be a copy because it will not be returned. Thank you to those who already sent in a picture. They are all adorable!
